Dear Bob:

A very tardy appreciation for a first-rate tour of your photo facilities! It was really an impressive accomplishment.

As you probably noticed, I was running out of gas fast and came home with a terrific case of instant flu. I hope that I did not pass it on to you or your staff. The transportation all around was much appreciated, especially the leg to Washington in view of my declining condition.

Again, congratulations on your new job and the promise for advancement it implies. We hope that you will not be out of intelligence too long, and will interest yourself in our activities in the meantime. Let us consider that a warm and standing invitation to visit us often in Washington.

Sincerely,
